GIMBEL PROJECT COMPLETED

The conservation and preservation project for the Colonel Richard Gimbel Aeronautical History Collection was completed in mid-1992. The project began in 1990 with funding provided by grants from El Pomar Foundation, the Boettcher Foundation and from The Friends' resources. Thousands of delicate paper items were encapsulated in non-acidic mylar envelopes. One thousand selected aeronautical prints were color microfilmed and microfiched so that these rare items will be available for use by cadets and other researchers without damage to the originals. The original prints were rematted and encased in non-acid materials. Thirty-five prints selected for their historical significance were framed and placed on the walls of the Gimbel Library. Over 150 books were placed in custom-built, non-acid pressure containers to protect the books from all environmental effects such as dust, light and humidity. The Friends had a custom-built cabinet crafted by Colonel Thomas Personett USAF (Ret) to hold the Library's collections of several hundred rare aeronautical medallions. As a result of the Gimbel conservation project, the Academy Library's Special Collections Branch is one of the nation's best examples of state-of-the-art technology in conservation and preservation.

DIRECTOR OF LIBRARIES NAMED AT USAFA

Lt Col James W. Hopkins was recently appointed as the Director of Academy Libraries. Colonel Hopkins holds an MA in English from Midwestern State University and an MLS from the University of Texas. He was Assistant Director for Technical Services at the Academy Library 1980-1982 and from 1986-1988. He is an Associate Professor of English and teaches classes in literature, composition and speech. Prior to assuming his new job, he was Commander of the Dean of Faculty Squadron and the Director of Faculty Support. He serves as one of three Advisors to the Board.

MEMORIALIZATION PROGRAM EXPANDED

Since 1988, The Friends have offered opportunities for individuals to be memorialized through donations at the $50.00 and above level. All books purchased out of memorial funds have a distinctive Friends' bookplate inserted. In the past year the program has been expanded. Donations may be restricted to the purchase of books as in the past to memorialize friends and relatives. Donations may now also be unrestricted and will be applied against the priorities established by the Director of Academy Libraries.

In September 1992, in coordination with the Stalag Luft III Former Prisoners of War, the memorialization program has been increased in scope to include organizations as well as combat crew members, many of whom were killed in action during World War II.

Hopefully, this new type of memorialization will also appeal to veterans of the Korean and Vietnam wars as well as Desert Storm.

All memorialization donors (at the $50 or more level) and those memorialized will be recorded in The Friends of the Library Honor Book. The Honor Book and its custom-built stand will be displayed prominently in the Special Collections area on the sixth floor of the Academy Library. Please refer to memorial form outlined on last page of Newsletter.

Many cadet research papers were written. Papers written by Cadet Charles S. Corcoran and by Cadet William Jeffery received the Air Force Historical Foundation's Award for the best papers in military history written by cadet authors during 1990 and 1991.

THANKS FOR VIDEO DISCS

For use in the Military Art and Science Divisions of the Commandant of Cadets, The Friends purchased twenty-two video discs. In a letter to General Moorman, the Commandant, Brigadier General (Maj. Gen. Selectee) Richard C. Bethurem, wrote: "These (video discs) will certainly improve the quality of our instruction. The curriculum continues to concentrate on the conduct of war, military theory, the application of airpower, and joint operations. These video materials will help our instructors illustrate these complex concepts. The materials you have provided will improve our teaching, the quality of the officers we commission, and the Air Force."

The Special Collections Branch continued to receive manuscript and non-book materials through the efforts of The Friends. Among the manuscript material, printed matter, photographs and artifacts were the following categories: the history of Stalag Luft III, the Eagle Squadrons of World War II, the construction and early operations of the Air Force Academy, the establishment and operation of the Strategic Air Command, and situation maps of World War II in the Pacific Theater of Operations.
